

Keep your best people at their best with Qured

Introducing the first proactive wellness platform that engages your whole company in their health

Do your wellbeing benefits truly serve a modern workforce?

- Today's multi-generational workforces have a broader range of needs than ever before
- Traditional medical insurance focuses on treatment, not prevention
- 40% of employees now say they would leave their job for better company benefits

Discover the smart benefit to help you to attract and retain the best

Investing in preventative healthcare keeps your best people at their best, whatever their stage of life, and delivers a competitive advantage that has a direct, positive impact on your business.

We focus on keeping your employees well, rather than treating them when they are ill, by building screening plans which give personalised insights into their fertility, cancer risks, organ function and nutrient levels. We provide support every step of the way and our convenient at-home testing saves time and effort. What makes us different is the time that our expert clinicians take to help every individual understand their results in the context of their holistic health. This personalised approach drives engagement levels up to 5x higher than traditional wellbeing programmes.

Our workforce analytics tools can then deliver actionable insights into your team's wellbeing and help you to measure the improvement in health outcomes for your employees and business outcomes for your organisation.
