There is a stigma. There is reluctance.

Talking about PHYSICAL health to your boss.

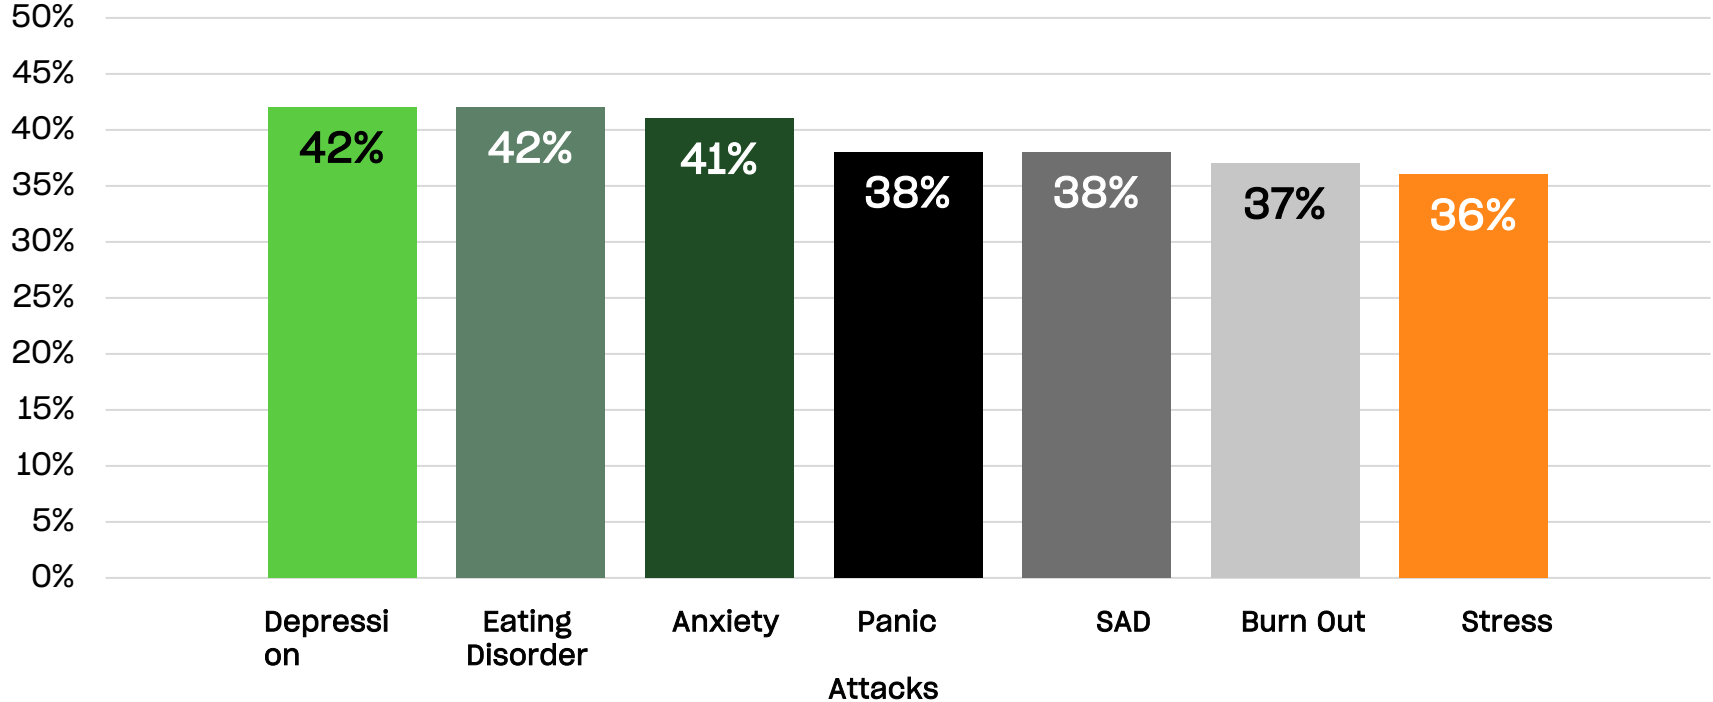

Conditions you wouldn't be comfortable discussing with your manager.

Talking about MENTAL health to your boss.

Conditions you wouldn't be comfortable discussing with your manager.

The link between physical and mental health is clear

GoodShape's frontline experience during the pandemic yielded some unequivocal insights

- 1 in 7 workers who need time off related to COVID subsequently need time off for poor mental health.
- Mental health-related absences following COVID-related absences last 63% longer.
- 45% of all mental health-related lost working time during the pandemic followed COVID-related absence.

The ‘mind or body’ question is often complex

The right assessment leads to the best intervention, and results in better outcomes.

Recorded reason for Absence:

‘Stress’

- A 52 year old Engineer
- 28 years of exemplary service.
- 23 absences from work. 15 in the last 12 months
- Has sciatica. Experiencing pain and sleep loss.

Recorded reason for Absence:

‘Stress’

- A 26 year old Project Manager
- Been with the company for six months.
- Had 7 absences from work since joining,
- Has been prescribed citalopram, (antidepressant).

And our data shows presenteeism is more acute for mental health problems.

Continuing to work through illness.

If you don't understand and address 'absenteeism',
you simply get more 'presenteeism'...

“Some 35 productive days are lost per worker each year because of presenteeism.”
